OPENING NIGHT

Marsha Robinson
Valedictorian
Class of '84

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET: Lesa Richards and Marsha Robinson are ready for a night on the town. They caused quite a stir when they walked in wearing tuxedos.

(Center) "Somebody do something; we're being held at gunpoint." "The Good Guys Don't Always Win" was a western with a little comedy. The Cunningham gang had a reunion and decided to do one last bank job. The cast for this seventh grade play was Stephanie Bussard, Connelly Wade, Joe Day, Frank Cunningham, Shawn McAnally, Larry Krohn, and Angela Koch. (Below) This play was a comedy about all the commercials on TV. The two kids were always fighting, giving their mother headaches. Characters were Rochelle Henke, Dewayne Taylor, April Peveto, Stacey Sylvester, Tim Roberts, Micah Kolb, and Shelly Johnson.

"Look at that old lady! No wait! It's Stacey Sylvester in disguise."

Mr. Toepfer hands out math awards to Juli Fitzpatrick, Todd Cook, Genelle Koch and Joey Fishburn.

The M-O band is LOOKING GOOD for the Mulhall parade, even if the weather is a little wet.

Seventh graders Dennis Bussard, Amy Leach, Susie Fishburn, Johnnie Mae Bernay, Kristie Newbold, Renae Taylor, Alisha Moss, Staci Barker, and Rosetta Bircket say, "Hey, these new lockers are pretty cool, and we got them first."

High school shop and ag. classes install new lockers. Good job, guys.

ALL THE WORLD IS A STAGE . . .

Popcorn! That delectable treat enjoyed by all at the movies. The popcorn for our movie was provided by the P.T.O. Every Friday, right after lunch, they sold popcorn at the grade school. What a success!

The actors were in full swing in the spring of '84. Graduations and programs filled the last few months of the school year. No good actors are worth anything without their supporting cast, whether it be with song or watchful eye.

"Oh, wow, buttered popcorn," says Heather Beauchaw.

"Hurry up please; the movie starts in 10 minutes." (Chasity Shafer, Jamie Gallaway, and Elliot Evans)

The 1983-84 first grade presented a program for the P.T.O.

KINDERGARTEN GRADUATION

Sharrie Jerome and Rodney Silvers provided the music for sixth grade graduation — Sharrie on the piano and Rodney on the drums.

SIXTH GRADE GRADUATION: Kristie Newbold was valedictorian.

EVERY WHICH WAY YOU CAN

Michael Ortega

Mrs. Spaulding's first grade class was challenged in a reading contest to see who could read the most books. And they read THOUSANDS of stories at home and at school. Michael Ortega and Monty Larman were the WINNERS!

"Wow, look what I got, guys. Thanks, Mrs. Spaulding," says Monty Larman.

◀ GOING UP? Melissa Graham surely did, and she's happy about it.

The senior play seems to have captivated the minds of the fourth grade class.

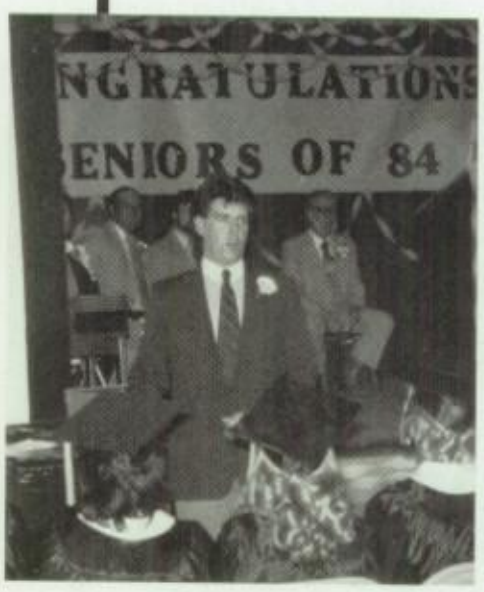
M-O SCHOOL TRACK MEET: (Above) The fifth grade boys get ready to do the softball throw. (Below) Tug-of-war, fifth grade girls against fifth grade boys.

THE ENFORCERS



Todd Harris, music major at SWSU, sings "Impossible Dream" at the 1984 graduation.

"By the power vested in me by the State Department of Education and the Mulhall-Orlando Board of Education I now pronounce you 1984 graduates of Mulhall-Orlando High School."

(Below) Play director's husband, Dick Raupe, and board member Maurice Day watch the senior play.

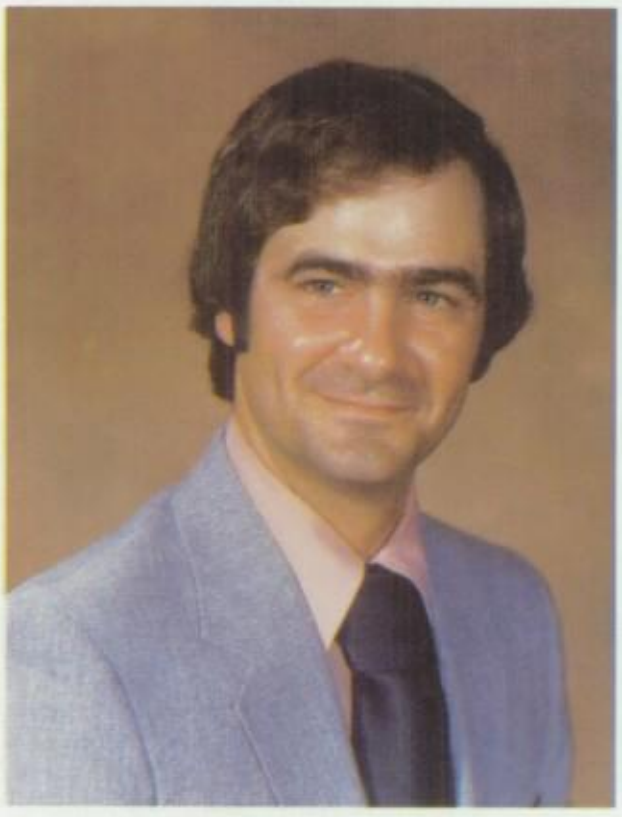
Seniors '85



Ron Van Vranken, Sponsor

Sitting in front of the television set watching SESAME STREET and CAPTAIN KANGAROO, the kindergarten class of 1973 couldn't possibly have imagined that they would one day be busy seniors, driving to school, cramming for tests or going on a date to see RED DAWN or ROMANCING THE STONE. Six members of that 1973 kindergarten class are now 1985 Seniors at Mulhall-Orlando High School.

Our small rural school gives students many opportunities. There is a strong bond between students and teachers because the teachers are able to spend quality time with each individual in one-on-one instruction. Class sponsors Debbie Dawson and Ron Van Vranken are two such teachers on the faculty. They have devoted countless hours and energies to the welfare and benefit of our class. Mrs. Dawson and Coach Van are much more than "sponsors," they are our friends.

TWILIGHT ZONE

Mr. Harris and Mr. Lorance

This show began at twilight and lasted until after midnight when all receipts had been counted and tallied by Mr. Lorance. Mr. Van Vranken, Mrs. Dawson and Seniors worked the longest hours since they had the concession stand and bingo. Mr. Harris as auctioneer helped them make this an exciting night.

Other booths at the carnival were:

Mrs. Stoddart, Mr. Nicholas and Juniors: cakewalk and dunking board.

Mr. Toepfer, Mrs. Hemingway and Sophomores: make-a-face and pie throw.

Mr. Ramsey, Mr. Onspaugh and Freshman: dart throw and ring toss.

Mrs. White and Eighth Grade: football throw and sponge throw.

Mrs. Dunn and Seventh Grade: baseball throw and nail drive.

"Hey, get back over here! I'll get you back!" — Darin Howard

"Do we have a winner?" — Shelly Shrum

Coach Nicholas livens up the cakewalk just being his normal self, while Wendi Harris and Gina Koch work around the clock.

"We protest; this is just not fair," say Joe Day and Kevin Andrews. (Shelly Johnson and Lo Wise encourage sponge throwers.)

The 1984-85 sixth grade class, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Peggy Yost, gave a very entertaining play entitled "Christmas at O.K. Corral." They performed the play just before Christmas Break, and it went very well.

On the opposite page (standing left to right) Haley Schmiedbauer, Michelle Ortega, Sharla Padgett, and Christy Cyphers begin the play by singing "O Christmas Tree" to a cactus.

On the right is Clancy Thomas and Louis Karns. Clancy was Santa Claus in the play. Here "Bad Guy" Louis Karns is holding up Santa Claus to get the presents that are for the "Good Guys and Gals."

"The Bad Guys!" Steward Bode, Calvin McBlair, and Louis Karns.

At the end of the play, "The Good Guys" come to the rescue and save Santa Claus and everyone's presents from the dastardly "Bad Guys."

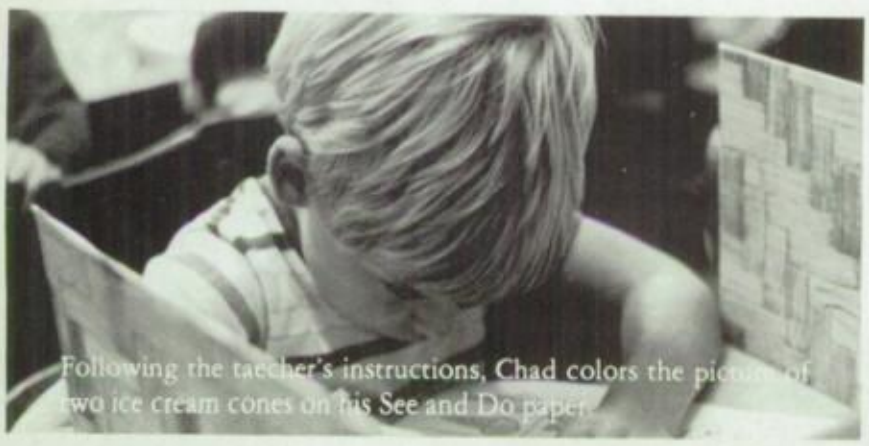
Up and Coming

Gone are the days of "nap time" and "milk breaks" in the kindergarten class.
Kindergarten has changed since its start in 1967. Today there is more emphasis on academics. And TV programs, such as "Sesame Street," help prepare these budding students for school.

The boys and girls begin every day at 8:30 a.m. with a hot breakfast in the lunch room. Each day they work on sounds and alphabet identification. They also learn to write their numerals; 0-10 the first semester and 10-20 the second semester. The students also learn their phone numbers, birthdates, colors and number words. After learning most of the capital and lower case letters in the alphabet, the students begin to learn words. After learning each set of words, the boys and girls may take home a book to read. The class also puts up the calendar date and counts the days till birthdates and holidays. "See and Do" papers teach each student to listen and follow instructions by identifying a certain number of objects and coloring them a particular color. The kindergarten ends their day at 11:15 a.m. when parents begin their carpools home.

Jamey wants more for Christmas than just his two front teeth!



Following the teacher's instructions, Chad colors the picture of two ice cream cones on his See and Do paper.

Clean plates and satisfied bellies is the best way to start the day in Kindergarten class.

Matthew, Marcus and Allen have plenty of energy at recess, so they play pirates on the jungle gym.

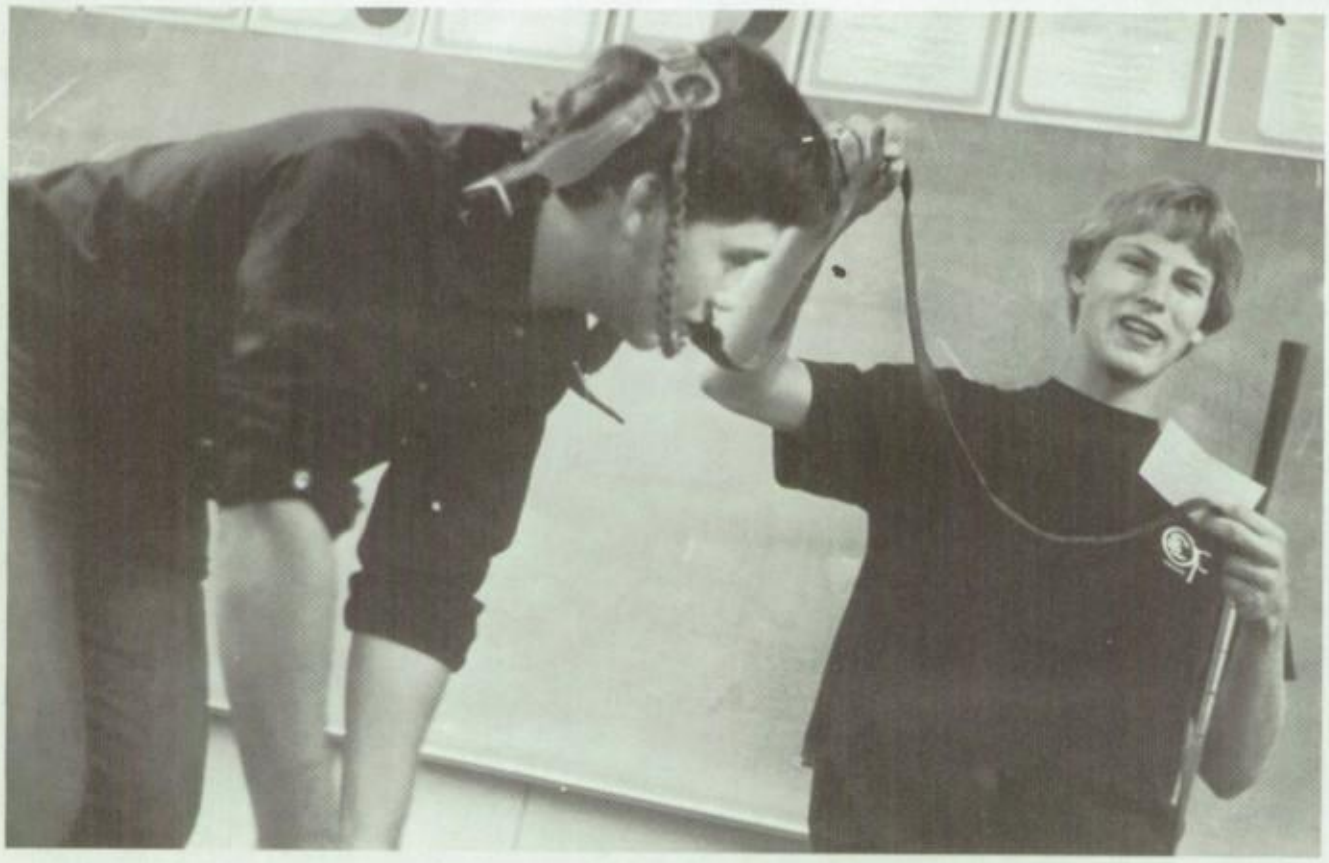
SPEECH CLUB

THE INFORMERS

The largest undertaking the speech club accomplished this year was their one-act play, "A Memory Of Harold." It was the story of a group of teenagers (the in-crowd) playing a practical joke on a nerd (Harold). It starts off harmlessly enough, but it results in Harold's quitting school and leaving town.

The characters: Robert (Greg Duncan), Lisa's boyfriend and narrator of the play; Lisa (Lavonna Wade), the most popular girl in school; Nina (Kelli Shafer), Lisa's best friend and instigator of the joke; and Harold (Mark Richards), the unsuspecting victim.



Other characters were played by Mike Fillmor Chress Watters, Tonya Rothermel, Nadine Zimme and Michelle Henke.

The speech club also managed to attend som contests. Two of them were at Okeene and Jenk At Jenks, Tonya Rothermel (Prose) and Kelli Shafe (Original Oratory) both qualified for regionals.

We also gave speeches during class. Some o them were quite entertaining. To the right, Mik Fillmore gave a very enlightening speech on how t show cattle. Mark Richards gave a GREAT perfo mance as his steer.

LISA AND HAROLD!

Yearbook and Newspaper Staff

Once Upon a Time . . .

Staff members were Veda Endevoets, Wendi Harris, Gina Koch, Kelli Shafer, Shelly Shrum, Lavonna Wade, and Mrs. White, Adviser.

Lavonna the only second-year member of the staff, served as editor of the yearbook.

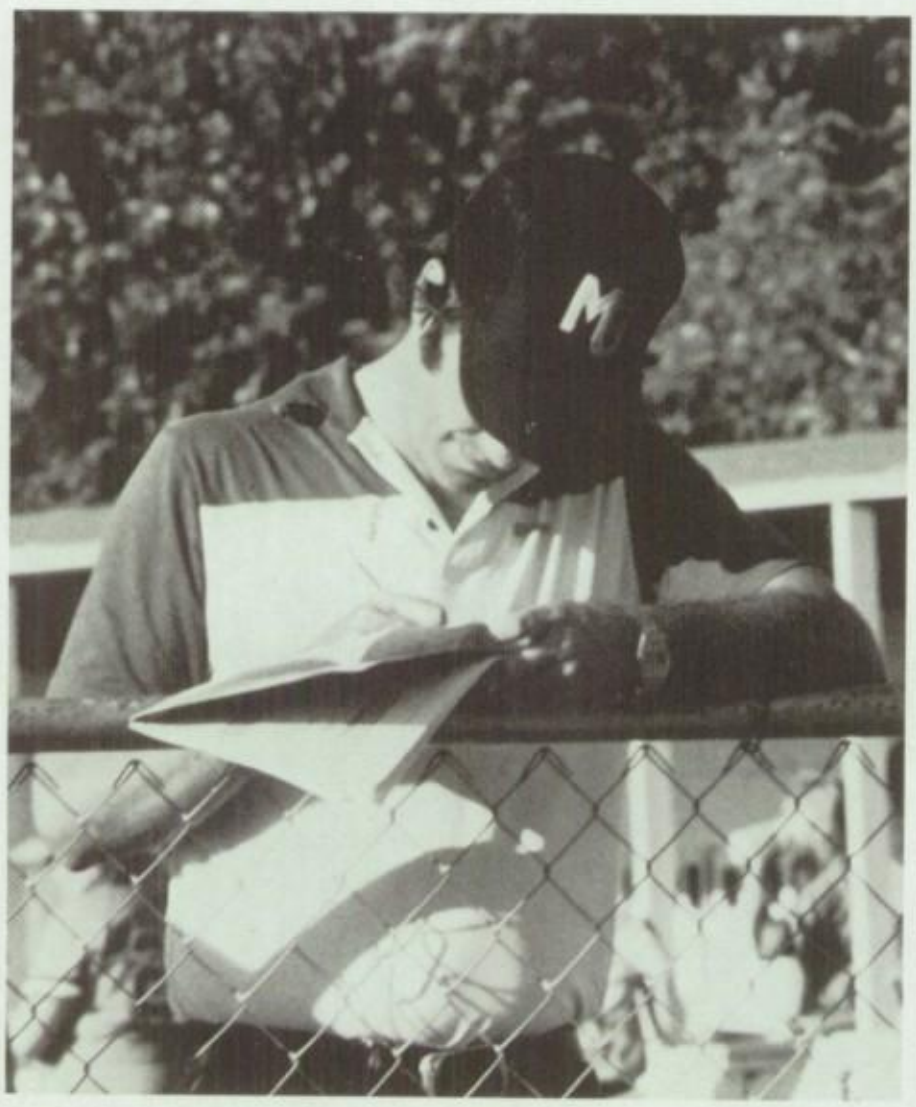
Oh, No! Who's gonna catch it? Stephanie Sylvester and Wendi Harris.



No one can keep the books straight around here! Coach Van.

Against All Odds

PANTHERS ON DEFENSE

After losing three key starters from last year's team, the 1984-85 boys basketball team was not expected to have a very good season. But, led by Seniors Michael Fitzpatrick, Johnny Betchan, and Jim Jack, they showed many a ball club that they were a force to be reckoned with.

The record does not show the fierce determination, the relentless attitude, or the hard fought games that went into what many would call a rebuilding year.

A Night to Remember

On November 30, 1984, Shelly Shrum was crowned as basketball queen and Michael Fitzpatrick king. The attendants were: Lavonna Wade, escorted by Johnny Betchan; Kelli Shafer, escorted by Mark Richards; Valerie Hafner, escorted by Kurt Friend; and Genelle Koch, escorted by Lance Leach.

Our theme this year was "A Night to Remember." Mrs. Frances Koch painted the backdrop. The flowers were carnations tinted the colors of the attendants' dresses.

This year's crown bearer was Michael Hafner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hafner. The banner bearer was Kayla Golay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Golay. The flower girl was Summer Bradshaw, daughter of Mrs. Tena Kitchen.

Year in Review

Around the world during the 1984-1985 there has been tragedy, folly, hatred and despair. But during the summer of 1984 America reveled in the spectacle of the XXIII Olympiad in Los Angeles. Our athletes won a total of 174 medals, setting an Olympic record and touching off an explosion of patriotic pride. Standing out amid the glitter and gold was super sprinter Carl Lewis, the men's gymnastic team with Oklahoman gold medalist Bart Connors, and a sparkler named Mary Lou Retton, who captivated the public like no one since Nadia Comaneci. Even the pain of distance runner Mary Decker, sidelined in a midrace collision, couldn't dim the spirit. The Olympians were America's darlings and in the midst of Campaign '84 the nation paused to celebrate itself.

During one ordinary summer day a sullen madman snapped and tried to get even with the world by opening fire on some unsuspecting victims at a McDonald's in California. James Huberty was finally killed by a SWAT-team but not before he'd slaughtered 20 people and committed the worst mass murder by one gunman in one day in U.S. history.

The first black Miss America, Vanessa Williams, was crowned and later dethroned after Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione published some startlingly explicit photos of her. Williams' successor, first runner-up Suzette Charles, was also black.

While the Democrats John Glenn, Gary Hart, Jesse Jackson and Walter Mondale battled to be the Democratic nominee for President, Michael Jackson sang and breakdanced his way into the hearts of millions. His 20-city "Victory Tour" grossed more than $90 million with the proceeds being donated to the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. Rock singer Prince, with his less innocent persona, pulsated his way into the limelight with his hit album "Purple Rain" and box office hit movie by the same title.

America held its breath as the anonymous Baby Fae lived through surgery which replaced her underdeveloped heart with a baboon heart. The premature infant made medical history by living 32 days, longer than any previous patient with a heart transplant from an animal. William Schroeder, at 52, became the second man ever to be fitted with an artificial heart. Within days of his operation he was listed as "satisfactory," and he demonstrated how well he was feeling by drinking beer for reporters at his first interview.

Oppressed countries of the third world were racked with disaster. In Mexico City an explosion at a liquid-gas storage facility located next to an overcrowded slum killed over 450 people. India, still recovering after the brutal assassination of their leader Indira Gandhi, became the site of the worst industrial accident in history. In Bhopal, at a Union Carbide Plant, lethal white gas seeped from a tank, killing over 2,500 and leaving up to 100,000 maimed. The entire continent of Africa endured the worst famine in their history. Vast droughts starved crops, livestock and people. With whole populations in danger of extinction, popular rocksingers assembled a supergroup with the idea of making a record to raise money for the famine victims. Thirty-eight rockers, including Boy George, Duran Duran and Police helped in the Band Aid project and released a single entitled "Do They Know It's Christmas."

The sports world was shocked when world champion hurdler and Olympic star Edwin Moses was picked up on drug charges. The Detroit Tigers won the World Series, the San Francisco Forty-Niners became the Super Bowl Champions and the Boston Celtics won the NBA title. Quarterback Doug Flutie from Boston College received the Hiesman trophy for his gutsy Hail-Mary pass. And for the first time ever, both Oklahoma State University and Oklahoma University football teams were ranked 2 and 3 respectively in the polls. Both schools ended their seasons in the top ten, while undefeated Brigham Young University remained a disputable No. 1.

The prime lending rate dropped to 11½ percent and gas prices fell to just under a dollar per gallon as election day neared. The Democrats nominated Walter Mondale to run for President. He made history by appointing Geraldine Ferraro as his Vice-Presidential running mate. Despite a televised debate between Ferraro and Vice-President George Bush, and two more between Mondale and Reagan, the President succeeded in winning another four year term. Ronald Wilson Reagan was re-elected in every state but Minnesota and the District of Columbia. The Reagan coattails were short in Oklahoma though, as Democratic Senator David L. Boren was re-elected by a landslide.

Yuri Andropov became the second Soviet leader to die in 15 months. He was replaced by another ailing figure, Konstantin Chernenko. The Soviets sent Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to resume arms control talks with the United States. And Americans dared to hope as rumors of nuclear disarmament spread throughout the country, even as Reagan began peddling his idea of "Star Wars" . . . nuclear weapons in space.

Bishop Desmond Tutu received the Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts in South Africa. And Kathy Sullivan became the first American woman to walk in space.

Extensive campaigns were launched both for and against parimutual betting in Oklahoma. The additional state revenue from horseracing appealed to many Oklahomans and they voted to "let them run." Voters also passed liquor by the drink as a county option.

Oklahoma's rural areas suffered an outbreak of violence. The small town of Geronimo witnessed the bloodiest bank robbery in Oklahoma history. Four local residents were shot and stabbed to death by 19-year-old Jay Wesley Neill. Even Mulhall was not exempt from violence. A desperate man with financial problems attempted to rob the Oklahoma State Bank. After wrestling with bank president Jim Patterson over a gun, the armed robber was killed. No one else was harmed.

Incumbent and former school board president Karl Klingaman was elected to another five year term. And the resignation of school superintendent Roy Snow was accepted. Mr. Snow and his family became a part of our communities in 1979, when our schools were faced with a $147,000 sinking fund indebtedness. Under Mr. Snow's administration and management of funds the deficit was converted into a $249,954 surplus. Our schools have benefited from other positive improvements such as new lockers, typewriters and computers, and remodeled bathrooms and classrooms.

They school became a member of the National Honor Society, and a student council was reorganized. As part of their plan to improve student-teacher-community relations, students devised the "first-ever" set of senior trip rules which the school board adopted.

The last page of a yearbook it seems, always says good-bye. After our seventeen seniors graduate, on May 17, 1985, a new class of seniors will take their place. And the following year another clas of kindergarteners will sign away thirteen years of their lives when they enroll. But this past school year, August, 1984, to May, 1985, will never be again. Tornado drill evacuations, the Band Follies and even skipping school will never be exactly as it was. You can never ride the bus, hear Mr. Harris' welcome speech, eat Evelyn's cinnamon rolls, or make a home ec. garment for the first time ever again. You may never march as well in the Mulhall Celebration, struggle as hard over a geometry problem or share as many secrets on the Vo-Tech bus. You can never re-shoot that last second basket, unsay any hateful remarks, or share the same orange with a friend at noon.

What is important though, is that you look back, years from now, and say with a smile, "I have no regrets."
